

NOTES:

1. A Motor Battalion was designated as such to be deployed with an armoured brigade as the infantry component in order to hold ground that had been taken by the armoured units. Most of the Motor Battalions were provided by just two regiments, namely:

- The King's Royal Rifle Brigade;
- The Rifle Brigade (Prince Consort's Own).

This includes the Territorial Army regiments that were affiliated to the above two regiments.