NOTES:

1. The division was formed in Canada on 5 September 1940 and transferred to the United Kingdom in July 1941. It landed on Juno Beach, Normandy, on 6 June 1944, under the command of I Corps. When the II Canadian Corps became active in Normandy on 13 July 1944, the division transferred to that Corps. Major General R. F. L. KELLAR, C.B.E.. He was wounded on 8 August 1944, being succeeded by Major General D. C. SPRY, D.S.O., on 18 August. The division fought battles for Caen, Carpiquet, Bourguebus Ridge, Falaise, le Laison, Boulogne-sur-Mer, the clearing of the River Scheldt, the Rhineland and the crossing of the River Rhine. Major General R. H. KEEFLER, C.B.E., D.S.O., E.D. assumed command on 25 March 1945, relieving Major General SPRY. The division remained in Germany in 1945 and 1946, as the Canadian element of the Canadian Army Occupation Force (C.A.O.F.). The C.A.O.F. was wound up on 15 May 1946, and the division disbanded in Germany on 20 June 1946.
2. The Lorne Scots was an infantry battalion which provided the defence and employment platoons for all the major units in II Canadian Corps.
3. This battalion was the machine gun battalion for the division.
